Open Season for Wrestling

The Hamel Recreation Center gym was alive with yelling coaches and teammates while muscles convulsed and limbs twisted in competition for the first home meet of the season for the University of New Hampshire wrestling club.

The wrestling clubs of UMass-Amherst, Northeastern University, Rochester Polytechnic Institute, and SUNY Cobleskill made the trip to Durham for the Wildcat Open. This round robin style tournament was meant for wrestlers to take on others in their weight class in order to see where they stand before the season gets into full swing.

Dylan Lockard had to take on just one other wrestler in his weight class at 149 pounds. In the final match Lockard won 5-0 but was worn out after going all three rounds with his opponent. "He was tough," Lockard said. "He was wrestling defensively which wore me down."

Lockard had the advantage by staying on top of his opponent throughout the match which is where he feels most comfortable.

Ian Wedemeyer won his class at 235 pounds including one pin.

"It's good to get back into the flow," Wedemeyer said. Brandon Paige won his class at 141 pounds after having to defeat two opponents. Paige's confidence was high entering the final match knowing that his opponent had lost to the same wrestler Paige had pinned earlier.

Paige was happy about his performance and thought it

"There's always things you wish you could have done differently," he said.

Horton, a junior, has been on the team for the past two years after transferring from Ursinus University where he competed in Division III NCAA wrestling as a freshman.

The tournament counted toward each team's record, but it was a toned down ushering into the season for everyone. Paige said tournaments tend to involve many more opponents and are at a much higher level of competition.

Mike Grillakis won in his 197 pound class with three pins. He took on a bulky opponent in his final match, but was able to toss him around like a dog with a snake and ultimately pinned him.

Gabe Horton, at 157 pounds, lost in his final match, but was optimistic about the weeks ahead of him.

Sport Club Roundup

Men's Ultimate

UNH Men's Ultimate came in 2nd at University of Rhode Island's Brisk Wins tournament in early November. Their only loss came in the finals when they fell to the URI Alumni team by just one point. Leading up to that final match were victories over Boston University, Wentworth, Bryant, URI and Stonehill.

Fencing

On November 5th, the UNH fencing team competed in their first tournament of the year at Smith College. As this was an individual tournament instead of a team based event, many of their members were able to advance to direct eliminations. This tournament also gave a lot of the freshman a chance to test their skills at the beginning of the season.

Men's Ice Hockey

The UNH club hockey team was looking to bounce back from a 8-7 loss to Endicott, but were unfortunately overpowered by Boston College on December 2nd when they fell 4-3. Josh Polombo recorded 3 points in the matchup with 2 goals and an assist while Sean Leahy netted a goal and an assist on one of Polombo's goals. Neil Scancerella recorded 23 saves on 27 shots in the effort.
